

HTML Page Setup Lab

Let's make the main page

1. Create a new file called index.html.
2. Give it a doctype declaration, a html tag, a head, and a body.

The page header

3. At the top of the body, add a  with an id of "header".
4. Inside the new div, add an image, our company logo. Since it is merely eye-candy give it an empty alt attribute.
5. Add an h1 with "Northwind Traders" and an h2 with "Fine foods for restaurants".
6. Add a paragraph that says "We focus on supplying high-end specialty restaurants with the best quality foods sourced from around the world and shipped to your door."

The page footer

7. Now add a  with an id of "footer" at the bottom of the page.
8. In it, add an unordered list with links to Facebook, Twitter, and LinkedIn
9. And finally add a copyright notice using a real copyright symbol.

The other pages

Now, this is our landing page. Let's create a few more...

10. Copy this page and paste it as product.html, search.html, catalog.html, aboutus.html, contactus.html, checkout.html, login.html, and register.html

Featured items

11. Back in index.html, add a  with an id of "featured". In it put a <h3> that says "Today's featured items". Make sure it is after the heading section and before the footer section.
12. After the <h3>, add a  with an  tag in it. When clicked on, it should take the user to a link like "product.html#/12" or "product.html#/23". (Hint: "href")
13. The  tag should display a product's name like "Chai" or "Queso" or "Ale". and be followed by an image of that product so that the user can click on either the name or the image and be taken to that link. Give that image a class of "productImage". (Hint: you can find product images in /assets/images/productImages).
14. Copy the  with the product in it and paste it three more times. Change the product names, images, and ids so that we have four products to stand in as our featured items.

Marketing stuff

15. Add another div with a class of "well" and an id of "whyus". Inside of it, put a h3 that says "Why us?" and follow it up with a paragraph that says "Because of our priorities:"

16. Then add an unordered list with these reasons:

- Our food is delicious. Only the finest and the freshest for you.
- It's all about your restaurant. We make you look good. We'll only sell the star of the plate, the conversation piece of the meal, or that hidden ingredient that makes a dish's character.
- We listen to you. When you call us we'll answer and take the time that we need with you.
- We're real. We don't fake our decisions about what to sell, how to describe the food or just about everything else.

Once you have the basis for all our pages and a full index.html page, you can be finished.
